Speaking Note

Amendment [REF] – RESIST

1. High quality, authoritative address data for the UK is already accessible for a reasonable fee from Local Authorities and Royal Mail, with prices starting at £95 for national coverage. There is also free access to this data for developers to innovate in the market.
2. The Government also makes this data available free at the point of use to over 6,000 public sector organisations, as well as postcode, unique identifier and location data available as open data – free for anyone to use for any purpose.
3. This amendment would result in significant additional costs to taxpayers and represent low value for money given the accessibility of data currently.
4. For these reasons, the government is not able to accept this amendment.
